LOCATION: Miller Beach, Gary, Indiana

Later this summer a Chicago financial analyst will be escaping the hustle and bustle of steel skyscrapers to relax at her European-style beach house.

The 4,500 square-foot residence will contain three bedrooms, two bathrooms and a huge living area that looks out over Lake Michigan. This is in addition to the workout room and elevator for easy access to all three stories.

Corrugated metal and Nichiha panel siding will make the slate-hued exterior stand out to passers-by, while Goldbrecht windows from Germany will make the exterior views easier to appreciate for those in the interior.

Lee Construction Management is keeping things green by installing tankless water heaters and a unique vegetative wall landscape design instead of concrete retaining walls.
